GOOD PRACTICES

Members of the AgeingWell Network collected 40 success stories about ICT solutions for Ageing or/and Health that have proven to be efficient and had positive impact among the target-group/market. These good practices will now be assessed by the members and compiled into an Handbook to be released by the end of the year 2013. These good practices intend to present how to successfully market uptake of ICT for Ageing Well solutions and initiatives, and can be used by stakeholders to generate new ideas and learn from previous experiences.

AgeingWell for Investors and Entrepreneurs

The AgeingWell Network aims to support investors in reaching entrepreneurs and SMEs with innovative ICT-based ideas and projects addressing the current Health and Ageing challenges, which need funding to become effective products and/or services in the ICT4Ageing market.

Entrepreneurs and SMEs looking for suitable partners for funding their ideas and projects addressing the ICT4Ageing market, with whom they can establish trust-based partnerships guided by strong ethical for sustainable investment and social responsibility principles, as well as by economic objectives, can benefit from the AgeingWell Network. If you have an innovative idea and project, see here how the AgeingWell Network can help you bring it to the market.
